The Alameda Education Foundation is made up of parents, teachers, business people and concerned members of the community. A vital force in the community since 1982, AEF has supported educational programs in Alameda public schools by providing millions of dollars in funds, materials, and volunteer resources to supplement the opportunities available in our schools. We support vital programs in art, music, drama, sports, science, technology and much more for thousands of Alameda school children. We believe that thriving schools are essential for a desirable community and a promising future.
